

Kombu Kelp print

Superfolk, 2015

Description

Kombu Kelp print by Superfolk.

Superfolk's range of products are inspired by outdoor living and the natural world and are crafted using the finest natural materials and time-honoured techniques.

The Kombu Kelp print is part of a collection of botanical prints inspired by seaweed foraging in the crisp cold waters of the Atlantic and hand-printed by Superfolk founder, artist and printmaker Jo Anne Butler.

Ideally suited to hanging with THABTO's elegantly simple magnetic plywood frame.

Each block print is hand cut and hand printed onto a long fibered handmade Japanese washi paper from Awagami Factory in Tokushima, Japan, where they have been making washi papers for eight generations.

Materials: Water based inks on a 50gr handmade Japanese washi paper with deckled edge.

Hand signed and dated by the printmaker. Ink colour tone variations unique to each print.

Designed and handmade in County Mayo, Ireland.
