

Moebius table

, 1957

Description

Moebius table by Objekto.

First discovered in a flea market in Parma, Italy, the Moebius table became an instant design classic. Simple lines create a sophisticated three-piece frame, referencing the Moebius strip, discovered by German mathematician August Ferdinand Moebius in 1858.

The table elegantly combines form and function, the unknown designer having imbued design nuances explored in the fifties.

Walnut stained beech frame with tempered glass tabletop.
