

Vertigo Nova pendant light

Constance Guisset,

Description

Vertigo Nova pendant light by Constance Guisset for Petite Friture.

The Vertigo series continues with the evolved Vertigo Nova collection, a homage to the original design using the same technical finesse and a dimmable LED lighting system. The collection features an integrated LED light in a blown frosted glass sphere, emitting an even light in any room. A highly technical collection, it does not neglect the distinctive elegance and form of the design.

A marriage between the statement geometric lines and soft curvature of the elliptical frame, the light is pioneering in innovation. This is achieved by interweaving slender polyurethane ribbons over an airy blown fibreglass frame surrounding a central sphere emitting light.

Guisset explains, "The purely functional is transformed into something beautiful where only that which is essential remains, a light and delicate veil floating between two worlds."

Please note that the Vertigo Nova light is folded for ease of transport and the manufacturers advise that two people are present to help unfold the light for installation.
