

Dandelion paperweight

B&A Needham, 1968

Description

Dandelion paperweight designed by B&A Needham for Hafod Grange.

A complete seed head captured in perfect symmetry before a gust of wind disperses the seeds. Clear polyester resin containing a UV filter to stop fading is used to embed the botanical specimens without destroying them, as molten glass would.

The globe shape allows the specimen to be seen in its beauty from all angles, creating a crystal clear effect.

Each specimen is hand picked, then dried using a range of techniques designed to preserve their natural beauty. Next they are cast in clear resin and then individually turned and polished to a superb finish. Because of the nature of the product, each paperweight is an original work of art, with no two being identical, making it an ideal gift and collectible.

Available in large and small sizes.

Additional Heather and Goat's Beard designs also available: see 'More products in this range' below
