

Natural sheepskin

Description

Natural sheepskin for twentytwentyone

Sheepskins have historically been used by modernist architects such as Frank Lloyd Wright, Alvar Aalto and Eileen Grey both on the floor as rugs and on furniture.

Our selection of sheepskins throws is produced by one of the UK's oldest tanneries, whose production began in 1879 and has been acknowledged with a Royal Warrant.

Natural sheepskins are all white in colour. They are not bleached but are prepared using environmentally conscious processes which maintain natural colour and tone.

Please note that in all cases, each skin is unique, so colour and sizing may vary.
