

Eames Elliptical Table ETR

Charles & Ray Eames, 1951

Description

Eames Elliptical Table ETR by Charles & Ray Eames for Vitra.

This low coffee table with its elegant elliptical shape resembles a surfboard and was quickly given the nickname "surfboard table". With its double chromed base, the table formally references a theme repeatedly varied by the Eames, namely that of shaped steel rods welded together to make a fixed, static structure.

Table top made from plywood with black or white laminate coating. Chromed or basic dark powder-coated steel rod base.

ETR = Elliptical Table Rod Base
