

Etch web pendant light

Tom Dixon, 2011

Description

Etch Web pendant light by Tom Dixon.

This dramatic shade is formed from sheet metal which has been digitally acid-etched to create a pattern of irregular pentagonal shapes. The resulting geometric filigree creates intricate shadows when lit from within, while a polished finish reflects and refracts the light of a central bulb.

Available in Stainless steel or brass-plated finishes.

250cm black and white striped fabric cable and a blackened chrome ceiling rose are supplied with stainless steel model; 250cm black fabric cable and brass-plated metal ceiling rose supplied with brass model.

Please note that brass model is currently out of stock with supplier: please enquire for details.
