

Safari foot stool

Kaare Klint, 1933

Description

Safari foot stool by Kaare Klint for Carl Hansen

The Safari foot stool and matching Safari chair are true design classics.

Designed in 1933, the Safari foot stool is one of the world's first 'build-it-yourself' furniture. It is designed with functionality in mind and can easily be put together and taken apart without tools.

The obvious companion to the Safari stool is the matching Safari chair, which Kaare Klint designed with the same 'knock-down' principle in mind.

The frame is made from solid ash wood, available in oiled or smoked stained finish. Seat in canvas (100% linen) only available in the natural colour. Also available in Thor 301, Thor 307, Thor 325 and Thor 322 leather. Straps in natural saddle leather. Please see pdf's in 'Product downloads' for the different wood finishes and how to care for them, as well as the canvas and leathers available. All material samples are also available to view at our shop or showroom.
