

Carl Hansen & Son: 100 Years of Craftsmanship

Carl Hansen opened his workshop on October 28, 1908 in Odense, Denmark. The master cabinetmaker soon became known for the high quality of his furniture, and the business prospered. Carl Hansen's son Holger also trained as a master cabinetmaker before joining the family company, which he would eventually lead into a new era of both production techniques and modern design.

It was Holger Hansen who took a chance on the groundbreaking designs of the young Hans J. Wegner. In 1949, the manufacturer and the designer initiated a collaboration that led to the legendary Wishbone Chair (CH24) and numerous other designs that continue to enthrall furniture fans around the world.

Today, Carl Hansen & Son are dedicated exclusively to Wegner's designs. Led by Knud Erik Hansen, grandson of the founder, the company continues to combine handcrafted care with the latest production technology to create furniture of lasting value.

Carl Hansen & Son

Today, Carl Hansen & Son continues to exclusively produce the furniture of Hans J. Wegner at our dedicated facility in Denmark.

Inspired by (and respectful of) the strong, versatile and natural materials Wegner used in his designs, we place great emphasis on adhering to his detailed drawings, standards and principles

In doing so, we also work closely with the Wegner studio to ensure that both quality of craftsmanship and his legacy is maintained.

All of the wood we use comes from renewable, sustainable sources, robust procedures and inspections ensure that the wood and joinery is perfect, and checks are carried out through the entire process.

At every stage of development, careful attention to detail ensures that furniture from Carl Hansen & Son will last for generations to come.
